Open Letter to Christian Ministers...

Have you heard of the second baby boom (check on the Web using Echo Boom)? Births in the US picked up significantly in 1980 (3.5M per year) and continued high through 2005. One hundred million new Americans were born...a very positive development. The most senior of these boomers turned 30 in 2010. They are workers, consumers, taxpayers, idea people, and churchgoers.

Consider the connection between this influx of youth and the outlook for the protestant ministry. We have 300,000 protestant congregations in the US...one church for each 1,000 people in our population. Projecting ahead, these new boomers will translate into 100,000 new churches over the next 40 years.

This isn't theory. Just as the post World War II baby boom sneaked up on us, this one has too. The skyrocketing smart phone industry tells the story as a commercial indicator. Even in a recession, iPhones and similar products are incredibly hot. A societal transition of this magnitude cries out for contemplation. What doors are closing? What new doors will be opening?

If you're in ministry, there's a 90% chance you're bivocational. A quarter of a million of our ministers are so classified and 4,000 or more new pastors hear that calling each year. This march of progress never ends.

What do America's pastors do as occupational sidelines? Our friend Tom used to sell automatic garage doors. Let's say he made $200 per deal and one sale per week. That couldn't put a new car in the garage when his teenagers turned 18, nor could it cover three college educations. Many bivocational ministers do handyman work and remodeling—but jobs are harder to come by in the current economy. Ministers do real estate work, car sales, insurance, carpet cleaning, small business ownership, wage employment, salaried employment, Home Depot/Walmart work, computer tutoring, tax preparation, and what have you. Other pastors rely on a spouse's income. Less than 10% are with a church that can pay full time compensation.

Pastor Dan his wife Debbie found a permanent solution. They joined the right network marketing company 14 years ago and developed a career building system that was right for them personally. Starting with zero experience and very little money, they built a substantial part time income in six months and were sitting on top of the world in two years.

They applied their skills and worked hard

(we don't offer free rides or easy money).

The results: A high six-figure income, security for the future, a comfortable family, and they still pastor their church.

Our mini-presentation tells its story in 4.8 minutes...and it may be exactly right for you. www.McGee.MillionFriends.info introduces a company that fits bivocational ministers to a tee. You'll hear from two field people and the principal owner and have the option to choose MillionFriendsdot2. This second segment touches on two significant concepts: leadership and leverage.

Speaking of carpenters! We think you will appreciate this testimonial from one of our part-timers.

"I NEED to make this business my career. Working at the cabinet shop hurts my knees too much. I have a few more weeks to finish these jobs and then I need to 'get serious.' This is a promise. I am worn out and my knees pain me when I get home.

"After my recent physical I saw my doctor to get the results. His first statement was, 'You have lost 21 pounds (Jan to Sept). Are you exercising more or dieting?'

"I answered: 'None of the above. I am drinking alkaline water, which I make at home with an ionizer.' He said my cholesterol was down from 184 to 161 and for the first time it was balanced. My BP was 110/76 and that was terrific. Doris told him, 'Yeah, he still eats his ice cream, too.'

"I've taken blood pressure meds since I got out of the Navy in 1974 and 120/80 was rarely seen even with medication. The doc suggested I cut back on my meds. I did and it is still 120/78. I am sure he doesn't believe it is just the effects of alkaline water. He thinks it is a fluke, but since nothing has changed except the water, what am I going to believe?

"What I have to do is share this Million Friends 'mini' with more people."

Pastors are ideally qualified to do professional network marketing. They minister to people's needs, which is also what network marketing leaders do. Pastors understand how recruiting helps an organization grow and remain strong; they have organizational and communications skills; they do problem solving; and they have a Servant's heart.

Don't let other network marketing experiences turn you sour on this new proposition. Our Million Friends career building system is based on honesty and accuracy. We don't promise the moon, nor do we suggest that money is made without work. We promise a good company, worthy products, and a career-based compensation system. The timing benefit associated with the new baby boom is just a bonus.

Within a few years after the recession ends, inflation will hit every church and every individual. We urge you to get a head start on preparing for it. By the time double digit inflation hits you can be secure like you never imagined possible. Your ministry will not be compromised.

Our company is poised to grow 20x or 30x larger than we are today. This is the right time to be discovering us. You can be started after one phone call and a little web-based evaluation. We mean really started.
